Darrin Geisinger takes the Zero-G's saga farther than our rapture-escapism church doctrine has prepared our minds to grasp.

Hold on to your seats! Prepare for a journey through D.U.M.B.S. Learn of creatures the government has known about for decades but has kept secret from the populace. There is an alien agenda. It is in opposition to everything that is good for humankind and that God established upon His creation.

Truisms must be adhered to. No Religions! No races! No nations! No borders! To achieve heaven on earth and to ascend to a higher plane there can be only one language; one purpose. All who do not adhere to the principles laid out by the unnatural white-robed leader are labeled as Reactionaries and must be exterminated.

Just wanting peace following the global socio-economic melt-down, the citizenry are willing to follow the beast-leader even to the point of turning in their own families to be slaughtered. The Resisters are divided. Some want to watch and pray; others are ready to take up arms as they understand the eternal costs of the unfolding events.

Our flawed protagonist continues his journey from an over-zealous hero-wannabe teen to a man whose eyes have been opened to the reality of his own failings and shortcomings to see his growth and witness his willingness to lay it all down for the sake of his friends, God's divine will, and humanity at large.

This series is an eye-opener to how easy it will be for the Enemy to achieve his goals at the end of the age. Lying signs and false wonders will deceive most.

I love science fiction so the cloaking space craft and exo-armors warriors fighting made this such a fun read. I found that I thought about this book long after I finished reading it.

Enjoy this fictional journey and prepare to have your mind opened just a little bit wider!
