

Date: May 14, 2022

Subject: How the fallen angels attitudes affect their own language as well as human language

In the beginning in heaven before there was the great angel rebellion there was one language shared by all angels. Then the heavenly language was divided into thousands of languages to force samller groups of fallen angels to be bound together into legions (groups of fallen angels under a leader) and thousands of leaders.

On earth in the garden before the rebellion of adam and eve there was a uniform language between God and humans. After the rebellion of adam and eve, the common language between God and the humans was scrambled so that it was now God controlling all the interactions. As a translation group we found it very interesting that until the incident of nimrod and tower of babel to build a tower to heaven God had allowed the humans to share a single common language. At the end of that incident, God smashed the uniformity of global language and culture people had enjoyed to that time, and people had to gather in smaller groups to be able to understand each other and the great language distribution around the globe began.

It was also after this time the fallen angels laughed in glee because the now had the opportunity to easily insert evil ideas into the thousands of new languages and not get caught by the humans unless they were walking tightly with God.

In the study of fallen angel languages there are two recurring things which pop out. First the Egyptian language is more wide spread globally than you might think. As it turns out this language circles along equatorial lines. The other language circles the globe in a polar manner. The two languages meet interestingly enough in Mexico.

RichardCassaro.com

Mexico

RichardCassaro.com

Egypt

Showing similar Architecture and symbolism between Mexico and Egypt

Words which are used in multiple languages around the world:

According to scientists from the Max Planck Institute for Psycholinguistics, there is only one word in existence that's the same in every language, and that word is 'huh'. By recording segments of informal language from across five continents, the scientists have revealed that the word 'huh' is the same in 31 different languages, making it the most universally understood term in the world.

"OK" is one of the most frequently used and recognised words in the world. It is also one of the oddest expressions ever invented. But this oddity may in large measure account for its popularity. It's odd-looking

Did you know that that word "Hallelujah" is the same is just about every language on earth? Imagine that, you know how to say a word that is understood in every language! In the book of Psalms there is an admonition for all the earth to sing Hallelujah

In 2020, "now more than ever" had been the most used phrase, this changed to "new normal" in 2021. The phrase was revealed by the tech giant with the help of its tool called Ngrams, which had been launched way back in 2009.

The primary function of any language is to be able to share the thoughts and feelings of people and fallen angels. It is very important to note that if fallen angels wish to intrude on the attitudes and behaviors of a group of humans in fact they must learn the base language of the particular human in question then to inject words or glyphs which blend into that particular human language, then in time the new thoughts and behaviors are in fact intruding on the original human language.

Fallen angel languages (please note that there are many fallen angel languages) the multiple languages exist primarily to have safe ways to express things to a very select group of other fallen angels (like having a secret code shared among select fallen angels). This is especially important to fallen angels because they are deceitful beings who want their thoughts to remain hidden from all but a select few fallen angels and hybrids as well as humans. Having explained these basic principles we can see how this occurs in human language and tie it to how it works in the fallen angel use of language.

1 The country of the Philippines has 7600 islands

1.1 In the Philippines there are 6000 recorded unique languages used across the islands. These languages came into being because of the isolation and the local need to communicate.

1.2 Tagalog the official national language of the country was created by the traders who traveled up and down the island chains borrowing words from each language group the found along the way. This language born out of necessity by the needs of the traders grew into a full and robust language and therefore became the official language.

1.3 There are several regional languages which cover geographic areas of the country.

1.4 There are also a huge number of “isolated languages which are used by an Island or a town or a family group some of these languages are only spoken by 25 people or less.

2 There are other languages created by the type of people using the language.

2.1 French is very much designed to express romance efficiently,

2.2 German, Polish, and Russian were created as primarily engineering and science languages.

3 In the languages there are a very large number of languages which are needs driven in various groups of languages:

3.1 Lucifer created languages which are in 3 basic groups:

3.2

3.2.1 The languages used in his throne room.

3.2.2 The “high Lucifer languages” which are languages Lucifer communicates with high ranking evil entities outside his throne room.

3.2.3 The “low Lucifer languages” which Lucifer uses to communicate with lower ranking evil entities.

3.3 The myriad of languages created by fallen angels to communicate privately and secretly between groups of fallen angels and hybrids.

3.4 Then last but not least are the evil words injected into the various human languages which are used to corrupt both the languages of the human but the culture and minds and souls of the humans.

It turns out that languages are created from necessity especially when the thought and ideas to be expressed are consistent among a group of users trying to communicate the ideas efficiently. What happens is this:

- 1 The words and ideas become a subset of the first language the ideas occurred first in.
- 2 Then the ideas migrate to other languages and words are chosen or created to consistently express the ideas across several languages.
- 3 As the number of users sharing the ideas grows in number so does the popularity of the subject matter.

Looking across all the languages used by or corrupted by the fallen angels here are some significant common threads:

- 1 The first thoughts, ideas and words involve beauty and seduction.
- 2 The next group of thoughts, and ideas involve power and control.
- 3 The next group of thoughts and ideas involve gaining more power through causing the death of others (most especially in your own family).